A Realtor with a Heart

Meet Doyle Hensley

Tel: 865-207-8972

Who is Doyle?

Doyle Hensley is a native of the Knoxville area who lived and worked in New England for 47 years. He was a small business owner, District Sales Manager for Frito Lay, and Regional Sales Manager for McKee Foods, (Little Debbie) among other pursuits. Doyle was a licensed REALTOR® in Massachusetts in the 1980's until his move to the West Chester area of Pennsylvania which is near Philadelphia. Upon his return to Massachusetts, he re-entered the realty field and maintained his license until his return to the Knoxville area in 2005.

Doyle is quite excited about the return to his home county and the burgeoning growth of the area. He feels this is a wonderful time to help people locate housing in this up-and-coming region.

The beauty of the mountains, the escape from sprawling urban areas, and the affordability of the land makes this area evermore attractive to many people.

Reasons to Live Here!

There are many attractive points to life in this area. Natural recreations like hiking, mountain biking, boating, and swimming mixes the enjoyment of recreation with the beauty of creation. Local state parks can provide these, as do sites like the rustic Cade's Cove, which is part of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. The area's proximity to Dollywood, Pigeon Forge, the Great Smoky Mountains and Gatlinburg offer loads of fun within a short driving distance. The area is also replete with historic sites, such as the Ramsay House, the Acuff Museum, and the Blount Mansion, North Carolina is only a short drive away, and the Blue Ridge Parkway is a beautiful, scenic road enjoyed by many families and motorcycle hobbyists. A bit further on is the native-American attraction of Cherokee, NC. The pageant Unto These Hills which tells the story of the Cherokee Indians, is performed there every summer and draws thousands. For NASCAR fans, it is only a two-hour drive east to the famous Bristol Raceway, or, if you prefer, a 90 minute drive to the south and the Tennessee Aquarium in Chattanooga, or a short three-hour drive to home of country music, Nashville! Located there is the Grand Ole Opry, Opryland, and the Ryman Auditorium.

Knoxville is Neat!

Knoxville was the home to the World's Fair in 1982. The 266 foot tall Sunsphere which graces the skyline is an ever-present, pleasant reminder. You can take a riverboat cruise on the beautiful Tennessee River aboard the Star of Knoxville Riverboat., which offers sightseeing, lunch, and dinner cruises. The Knoxville Zoo is one of the quality zoos in the country. The Museum of Appalachia is the most complete replica of pioneer Appalachian life in the world. Of course, Knoxville is home to quality education and sports with the University of Tennessee. The Dogwood Arts Festival is a yearly artisan event. The area is also home to many Civil War attractions and is frequently the site of battle re-enactments. There are also many significant cemeteries, such as the Old Gray Cemetery which is over 150 years old and a Victorian era example of cemetery planning and design. There is also Knoxville's most visited historic site, the James White Fort. It offers a glimpse into the life of early settlers of the region.
